

Township Asks State Aid to Build Two Creek Bridges

Commissioners Claim Spans Over Mill Creek Bottle-necks Causing Floods

Bristol Township Commissioners have asked the State Highway Department for aid in replacing the present bridges across Mill Creek at Magnolia road and at Green lane, it was learned today.

George Sottung, president of the township commissioners said that he would estimate the new bridges at these points would cost about $50,000 apiece.

"That's too big of a proposition for the township to handle," said Sottung.

"Property owners are complaining because their land is being flooded," declared Eugene Stutz, road commissioner.

According to Stutz the present bridges over these roads act as bottle-necks. He said that water from Levittown and Fairless Hills, coming from 10 four-foot storm sewer pipes enters a 75-foot ditch made by Levitt to carry the drain water away.

This 75-foot ditch flows into Black Ditch, which Stutz said was about 60 feet wide. From here the water flows into Mill Creek which has about a 50-foot width. Then the water reaches the bridges which he said were about 24 feet wide, "then the water backs up."

According to the township engineers the water from the area used to sink into the farmlands. Now that the area is built up the drainage is channeled into Black Ditch and Mill Creek.

In addition to work on the bridges the township plans to "straighten out" Mill Creek in the section just above Silver Lake, according to Stutz. He added that as soon as approval was received from the highway department the township would be ready to begin work on the problem. The plans are already prepared, he said.

The township commissioners and borough council are to meet Monday evening at 8 p. m. at the Bristol Municipal building to discuss the problem according to Sottung.

BICYCLE RIDERS BE CAREFUL

With the coming of spring it's time again for parents to remind their bike-riding boys and girls that traffic laws apply to them as well as to motorists, advises John Armstrong, Manager of the Doylestown Division of the Club.

"There are Bicycle Laws and a Bicycle Code governing use of bikes on public highways and thoroughfares, but too often they are disregarded or even unknown to many persons," he continued. "It's very important, therefore, that parents make certain that their sons and daughters realize that when riding their bikes in traffic they are just as responsible for their own safety and that of others as those driving automobiles and trucks."

"Bike riders are required to obey all traffic signals and signs, use proper hand signals for turns, ride on right side of highways close to curb, park vehicle in safe place, stop and render assistance in case of accident and report to police, assume liability for any damage resulting from careless and negligent operation of bike when other party is not guilty of negligence, stop while passengers are boarding and alighting from street cars, and keep bike in safe operating condition."

"Bike riders are forbidden by law to hitch on or hold fast to any other vehicle, carry an extra passenger on the handlebars or any other part of bike, engage in any trick or fancy riding on highway, and ride bike on sidewalks unless local ordinances direct otherwise."

"Strict observance of these traffic laws by all bike riders will go a long way toward making highways safer for all who use them."

Tullytown's First Ordinance Was for Jail Erection

Second Ordinance, Forbidding Lounging, Probably Helped Populate It

TULLYTOWN, Mar. 28 — The first ordinance borough council ever passed was for the construction of a borough jail, and the second may have helped populate the jail.

The local legislative body was known as Tullytown Town Council on May 11, 1892, when they adopted Ordinance No. 1, under the leadership of Chief Burgess, Amos B. Headley. The measure authorized the council police and sanitary committee to purchase from James S. Randall, of Pond street, a site with a 30-foot frontage at a cost not to exceed $2 per front foot. The ordinance further directed the borough officials to "contract for the erection and construction of a borough lock-up thereon."

This, and the other old laws of Tullytown may be seen in the old borough law book, which is now in the custody of Council secretary, Fred Rentschler.

Members of the first council, with Chief Burgess Headley, were elected on Page Five

Work Feverishly to Free Passengers From Wreck

By Howard Babcock

(INS Staff Correspondent)

CONNEAUT, O., March 28 — (INS) — Rescue squads worked feverishly in a driving rain today to free screaming passengers from twisted wreckage of a three-train smashup that killed a reported 30 persons near Conneaut.

Nearly 200 persons were reported injured last night. Many may die before they are released from the rubble.

Two crack New York Central passenger trains and a freight crashed in remote farmland near the Pennsylvania border about 15 miles east of Ashtabula, O. Cars were collapsed like tin cans and 1,000 feet of track was torn up.

Workers with acetylene torches cut through telescoped steel cars to free victims and recover bodies. As many as six persons were trapped alive in a single car.

Deputy Sheriff C. H. Blanche of Ashtabula County said the unofficial toll is 30 dead and "uncounted others" injured.

CONTINUES TO IMPROVE

Miss Martha Berglund, 18, of Green Lane, who was struck by a hit-run driver Wednesday evening near her home, continues to improve. She remains in Abington Hospital.

STOP THE SPEEDING!

While it has not been established that a "hot-rod" was to blame for running down Martha Berglund, on Green Lane, Wednesday evening, leaving her bruised and bleeding, there has arisen in the mind of the public, that an intensive campaign should be launched against speeding motorists in Bristol and surrounding area.

"It is time the hot-rodgers and other speed violators should be driven off the streets of Bristol and surrounding area," said a prominent resident of the area. "Let us start an accident elimination campaign in Bristol. To do so calls for a strict enforcement of the motor vehicle laws."

Speeding over the principal highways of Bristol is all too frequent, it is argued.

The Bristol-Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce posted a $250 reward yesterday for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the motorists, who struck the Berglund girl, a high school senior. Members of the Chamber of Commerce are outspoken in the opinion that it is time to curb motorists, who persist in exceeding speed laws.

Middletown Board Adopts $292,400 Budget

PARKLAND, Mar. 28 — Middletown township school board meeting last night at Parkland elementary school, here, adopted a budget of $292,400 for the 1953-54 school year.

According to Lester E. Ransom, school board secretary, this figure is more than $12,000 under the $304,000 budget under which the board has been operating for the past year. Last year money was provided for the purchase of school ground.

The school tax rate, however, remains the same: 35 mill on real estate. The personal tax rate is $5. Last night the board voted a resolution to continue to collect the $4 per month trailer tax, the one per cent real estate transfer tax, the 10 per cent-o-gate-receipts amusement tax, and the $5 per capita tax.

The new budget provides $245,000 as the township's share in the operation of the Neshaminy Joint School system. This is roughly a $25,000 increase over the township's share of cost last year. A part of the increase, according to Ransom, is expected to act as a "cushion" against extra costs that may arise if there is a sudden increase in pupil enrollment in the schools of the Neshaminy district.

At the meeting last night the board discussed arrangements to purchase ground for a school from Levitt & Sons, Inc. Ways and means of raising money for a new school for Levittown were also discussed said Ransom.

Three visitors were present: Edwin P. Alexander, president, Washington Crossing Club; Harry Simpson, past president, and Alfred O. Redland, president, of Morrisville Club.

At the April 1st meeting subcommittees will meet in groups to outline programs.

Malays Looking With Hope to The Future

Couple Who Resided There 5 Years Tell Travel Club Of That Country

Malaya, under the protection of England, but looking forward to independence, was pictured by a couple who appeared before Travel Club members yesterday afternoon. The speakers at the bi-weekly meeting of the local club were Mr. and Mrs. C. Dudley Ingerson, of Cornwells Heights, who lived in Malaya five years. Mr. Ingerson is headmaster of Pen Ryn Episcopal School, Andalusia.

Alternating in presentation of short talks the Ingersons added to the picturesque program by means of costumes worn by the diversified groups residing in Malaya — those of the Malays, the Chinese, and the East Indians. Not only the marriages, customs of the people, their work, and education were told of, but the religions also.

In summing all this up, Mr. Ingerson stated that "The hope is that the differences can be resolved, and that the country can become an independent one, and a member of the family of nations."

Picturing Malaya as a "delightful country in which to live in spite of Communist guerrillas," Mr. Ingerson told of the tropical vegetation. "The people in Malaya pose certain problems. They come from countries round about, from countries which are over-populated, or where either floods or drought abound."

Mrs. George E. Boswell introduced the guests, who displayed

Blood Quota Here Low For Bloodmobile Visit

Many More Volunteers Are Needed for Wednesday, Says Blood Chairman

Many more volunteers to donate blood are still urgently needed when the Red Cross Bloodmobile makes its visit to Bristol, Wednesday, according to Mrs. Dean Weidner, Bristol district Blood chairman.

The visit will be held at the Sons of Italy Hall, Wood street, from 1 to 6:30 p. m. Baby sitters will be provided for those donors whose children accompany them.

"Most of the service and social clubs in this area have promised to co-operate. However the quota has not yet been reached. Due to the increased demands for blood for our boys overseas, for our civilian hospitals and for gamma globulin which prevents paralysis from polio; the reserve supplies of blood are low. In case of a national disaster, there should be blood and plasma in reserve," says Mrs. Weidner.

Anyone who wishes to donate blood is asked to call Mrs. Dean Weidner, or Mrs. William Levinson for an appointment.

COURSE INSTRUCTOR

J. LEON RABBen, Esq.

Incident Control Course Is Now Being Set Up

J. Leon Rabben, Phila., is Assigned to Post at Wm. Penn Center

FALLSINGTON, Mar. 28 — J. Leon Rabben, Phila. lawyer and expert in the field of prejudice control, will instruct the new course in Incident Control opening at the William Penn Center, here, on Wednesday, April 1st.

In introducing the course to the public, Kent R. Larrabee, director of the Friends Community Center, pointed out how the community around the Fairless plant of U. S. Steel Co., has become a testing ground for democracy. "Organizations or religious and other groups such as the Human Relations Council for Bucks County, can do much to hold back bigotry; but organized community effort, important as it is, does not go far enough."

"Hate," Mr. Larrabee added, "is a catching disease. To check its spread, we must act as individuals in our daily contacts and associations. On the surface, evidences of prejudice may seem trivial and may only amount to a careless remark or a thoughtless joke; but, like invisible germs, they spread intolerance more effectively than organized propaganda."

Incident Control is a ten weeks course in human relations and will

NEWS BRIEFS

DO WE CARE?

To The Stroller:
Where are the local service organizations when our boys are sent for induction? Each month, without any sign of appreciation or recognition, they leave.

But at the Doylestown draft board it's a lot different. There the Women's Auxiliary of the fire company distributes coffee, doughnuts, cigarettes, candy, etc. The North Penn Youth for Christ, Glenside, distributes Protestant and Catholic testaments to the draftees. A photographer from the local paper snaps a "shot" of the boys before they leave. At another board the draftees are even given a farewell dinner with each being presented with a small memento of the occasion.

Remember, they are YOUR sons, YOUR husbands, and YOUR brothers. Let's show them we care! Or do we?

BIG AND SMALL BOMBS

To keep the record straight it is necessary to note that the nuclear device exploded at Yucca Flat, Nev., last week was not an atomic weapon. That is, in the form it took in this test the fissionable material detonated there could not have been used in warfare.

But the distinction is of little practical importance, for it is obvious that the destruction wrapped up in this nuclear device can be packed as either a strategic or tactical weapon.

The Army made no bones about that when it invited correspondents to view some of the aircraft that are capable of carrying bombs similar to this device. One of the planes was a Republic F-84G Thunderjet, a single-engine jet fighter-bomber. Larger planes can deliver atomic bombs for strategic purposes. This one can serve a tactical end.

The big mobile rifle displayed for the first time in Inauguration Day is to be used later in tests to fire a shell with an atomic charge.

It is worthwhile to labor this point, though, it has been known for some time that the armed forces were making great strides toward developing the atomic bomb as a tactical weapon. No one can doubt now—and that includes the Russians—that U. S. command of this new force as a military tool continues to grow.

Last week's was the 35th American nuclear explosion. The Russians are known to have managed three, the British one. All but two of the 35 have been experimental, required to carry on development of atomic weapons. This seems to leave no doubt that the Russians lag far behind in this field. But this country cannot afford to fail to plan against the day when its advantage will no longer be insurance against attack.

FAST FOOTWORK

Russians, it appears, are fastest people in the world. Real agile, that is. Dispatches from Moscow during the late sorrow, when even the UN flag in New York drooped at half staff, placed word of the grieving which passed Stalin's coffin in 48 hours at 5,000,000. The figure had an unrealistic appearance, but most persons passed it off as merely slight exaggeration by a race that is noted for specialization in champion size lies.

But an accountant in Oklahoma who is genuinely adept at figures grabbed his pencil and came up with an interesting result.

If the Muscovites had dashed past Stalin's coffin, three abreast, at the rate of 22 miles an hour, fewer than 5,000,000 would have obtained a fleeting glimpse of the departed in 48 hours. Probably the characters in the Kremlin thought that the interment of the world's biggest liar rated a colossal whopper in his honor.

Palm Sunday

The multitudes hail Jesus as He enters Jerusalem.

Jesus teaches in the temple.

ONE OF THE most crucial weeks in the world's history opened with the arrival in Jerusalem of Jesus and His disciples. As He entered the city He was greeted by multitudes who "cut down branches off the trees, and strawed them in the way." As He made His way to the temple, the crowds surrounded Him, crying, "Hosanna; Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord."

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

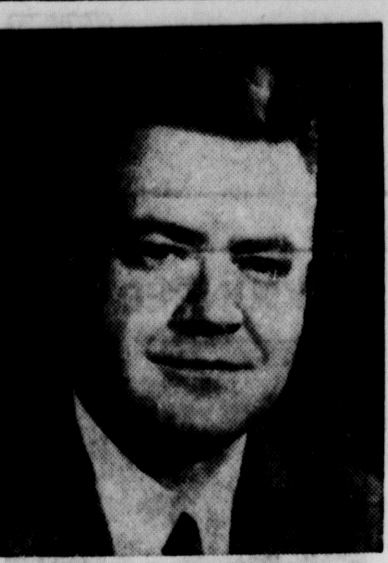

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.
There is a political racket operating under the nose of the Eisenhower administration that is sponsored by the Left-wing Americans for Democratic action, chief supporters and promoters of the presidential candidacy of Adlai Stevenson.

The racket involves the Left-wing indoctrination of college campus leaders who display socialists and pro-communist inclinations. They are trained at the expense of us taxpayers, after being brought to Washington under the sponsorship of students for Democratic action, the campus arm of ADA. The SDA membership consists largely of frustrated juveniles who parrot the boloney peddled by their Left-wing elders.
The ADA-SDA racket saddled on our backs is called the leadership training program. About mid-winter each year, SDA sends out notices that once again SDA members on the campus are eligible for the summer training program. With the literature is a government employment blank, and the expressed promise that if the application is filled out and submitted there will be a government job awaiting the student when he arrives in Washington.
Once in the capital, the SDA students must promise to attend the three weekly seminar meetings before they can get on the government payroll.

This year, the Washington SDA office admits, approximately 20 students will attend the summer seminars. SDA literature sent out to entice recruits, states that in the past participants have worked in the department of agriculture, the wage stabilization board, the department of defense and the District of Columbia library.

It might be noted here that the ADA membership consists largely of past or present federal employees who know the ropes and are able to find a soft berth in some government agency for the student, so he won't be overworked and too tired to absorb the indoctrination.
As a sample, in previous years the eager SDA leaders were pumped full of the wisdom of Senator Hubert Humphrey, an ADA eager beaver; Louis Bean, Department of Agriculture expert for the Democratic National Committee; Ted Dudley, of the Congress of Industrial Organization Political Action Committee; and Glen Slaughter, of the American Federation of Labor's League for Political Education.

This gives you an idea of the kind of indoctrination our college boys and girls who are members of SDA get when they arrive in Washington.
Federal jobs, summer or otherwise, are on a competitive basis, except for a select group which come under the heading of federal appointments. These are normally the top federal jobs, or those which involve patronage or special skills.
SDA students who sign up for the leadership training program are required to take Civil Service examinations. They are urged to apply early, before April 1 of this year. Nobody can guarantee any-

ALLEN J. GREENOUGH

Allen J. Greenough becomes vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Eastern Region with headquarters in Philadelphia. Mr. Greenough, who is 48, was superintendent at Sunbury and Baltimore and general superintendent at Harrisburg prior to moving to Pittsburgh as general manager in 1952. In his new assignment Mr. Greenough will be in charge of the railroad's operations East of Altoona including a territory bounded by New York City, Norfolk, Va., Washington, Hagerstown, Md., Altoona, Renovo and Sodus Point, N. Y. He succeeds E. W. Smith who is retiring.

Smith, of New Jersey, who is expected to cooperate with Senator Taft and the White House in this matter. A second is because the House, for one reason or another, often inserts provisions in a bill which it has every reason to believe the Senate will reject—and would be disappointed if it did not. A third is because in the inevitable conference committee the Senate conferees usually carry more weight. And a final reason is that the Eisenhower influence will be strongly behind the Senate version.
Inasmuch as the Taft-Hartley Act was one of the chief issues in the last campaign, upon which both the platforms and the candidates took sharply conflicting stands it is likely the amended bill will precipitate a heated and prolonged fight before final action is taken. As to the outcome, there seems little doubt that the Eisenhower-Taft views will prevail. Anything else would be absurd. Not only on this issue do the two men now see eye to eye but their stands during the campaign (that this act was fundamentally sound but should be amended in certain respects) were identical. It will be recalled also that the union-labor bosses, the union labor propaganda machine and the full strength of union labor, so far as it could be influenced by its bosses were against General Eisenhower and in favor of Governor Stevenson.

Everything they had was used to affect the vote and so strong was the pressure upon Governor Stevenson that he wilted. Originally his attitude was against repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, but in favor of amendments. That was exactly the Eisenhower-Taft position, but Mr. Stevenson made a complete about-face and in the end was denouncing the T - H Act with a violence equal to that of the Messrs. Murray, Green, Rutherford and Lewis themselves. Also it will be recalled that the election results showed these labor bosses could not deliver the labor vote—even in the big industrial states where they were supposed to be strongest. Take it altogether and the labor bosses made a remarkably poor showing in that election. They made a lot of noise, but exhibited weakness, not strength. If the vote meant anything it meant that the country was sick and tired of being run by the labor bosses who had taken control of the Democratic party and in any strike, no matter how critical, could count upon the unswerving support of the President. That support meant that regardless of the merits of the controversy, the labor bosses invariably got the bulk of what they asked. With the White House back of them, they could not lose. The damaging effect upon the national interest of this alliance has been attested by Mr. Charles E. Wilson, head of the Truman War Mobilization Board, who declared that the steel strike, which Mr. Truman aided and abetted, would add twenty per cent to the cost of the defense effort, besides slowing down production. It drove Mr. Wilson, one of the best men in Washington, out of the Administration.

Unquestionably some of the lack of ammunition in Korea testified to by General Van Fleet can be traced to this strike and to other stoppages in defense plants all over the country. Former Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett and others point out the danger these entail, but with Administration support they continued. A considerable part of the huge vote by which General Eisenhower was elected came from people who resented the political tieup between the labor bosses and the White House. Few dispute that. The attitude of both the new President and Senator Taft is not anti-union. Neither wants to punish the labor bosses for their stand in the campaign.
Neither wants to enact a punitive law. Nevertheless, there certainly will be deep disappointment among millions who voted for General Ike if he does not succeed in getting through Congress at this session amendments that will take from these labor bosses the power economically to strangle the nation in a time of crisis—or at any other time. Certainly this is one thing those who supported him have a right to expect. Of course, there will be violent opposition from the Murrys, the Mosses, the Humphreys, from the so-called "liberal" journalists and from Left-wing organizations such as the Americans for Democratic Action. But the votes are there in both House and Senate to pass such a law—and they are not all Republican votes either.

Malayans Looking

colorful costumes of a Malay man and woman, which they themselves wore; also a Chinese wedding dress modelled by Mrs. C. Donald Moyer; a Chinese woman's everyday costume (a pajama suit) for which Mrs. Dorrance N. Morris served as model; and an Indian costume, with attractive sari, worn by Mrs. Keith Rosser. Attired in light blue jacket and trousers, and a purple sarong, Mr. Ingerson donned his purple hat, informing that "every good Malayan keeps his hat on inside the house."

The audience found the talks on Malay, "the cross-roads" of the Far East most informative. That the people in the back-ward spots of Malaya are beginning to think and to consider themselves as part of the world was one point brought out.

"In Malaya 5,000,000 people are now shouting 'Malaya for the Malays'." Mr. Ingerson informed. "Malaya is a peninsula about the size and shape of Florida. We find large minorities there, with 40% Chinese and 40% Malays. The Indians represent 10%, while other nationalities make up the balance."

The significance Malaya holds for the western world as well as for the British Commonwealth was considered, it producing over one-third of all the rubber in the world, and about one-half of the tin. "Strategically it is very important, extending down the southeastern Asian archipelago on the world trade routes."

Mrs. Ingerson, in turn, told of the Chinese wedding dress. Not only is this richly embroidered by hand, on broadened silk, but the braid used extensively for trim is woven by hand. The lining was of pink brocade. The guest told of the planned marriages for the Chinese girls. "The young people accept these plans. They know their parents are wise and will choose for them suitable husbands. The Chinese spend whole fortunes on weddings, and oftentimes go into debt for them." Plural marriages were discussed, the "discarded" wives of times finding themselves on the streets after new wives are chosen, have no recourse to law. One of the welfare problems in Malaya was listed as the care of wives cast out by their husbands.

The "usual Chinese dress," the pajama type modelled by Mrs. Morris, "is made at home with a minimum of cloth" Mrs. Ingerson informed. Buttons, hand-made, are of "piping" material. Turning attention to the costume of the Indian woman, as displayed by Mrs. Rosser, Mrs. Ingerson mentioned that "This one type garment serves all the women of India." It was mentioned that the East Indians go to Malaya in search of a better living. They are the laborers of Malaya, and many Indian women work on the roads and railroads; numbers of them being skilled at tapping rubber trees.

The headmaster of Pen Ryn, in a portion of his program, told that the Chinese in Malaya "are rather aggressive and many fabulously wealthy." The Chinese are the shopkeepers, the business and professional men in Malaya.

The competition between the Chinese and the Malays in Malaya, with pollution about even, and the special privileges granted the Malays under the constitution of 1948 were discussed, this being the province of Mr. Ingerson. "The Malays are becoming more and more nationalistic as time goes on. They are the fisher-folk and farmers of Malaya. They are easy-going, living from day-to-day; and they love to wear very bright clothing."

Turning attention to her own costume, Mrs. Ingerson informed that a Malay woman wears plenty of jewelry. She showed how the head scarf can be both decorative and utilitarian. In regard to education she mentioned that the women are now receiving such benefits, some the equivalent of the 5th and 6th grades. She mentioned that under Moslem law a man may have four wives, adding that many girls marry at 13, and some are divorced at 14 and 15. "Divorce is very common. A woman is the chattel of her husband. But the Malaysians are trying to remedy that now as the people realize such a custom retards them in this present day."

Some Malayan records were played by the guest speakers during tea hour. Vocal numbers for the afternoon, provided by Mrs. Ralph Hart were "Open the Gates of the Temple" and "Bless This House." The accompanist was Mrs. Albert M. Dowden.

Mrs. Robert D. Brooks, president of the club, invited Mrs. Harry T. Neher to present report of the nominating committee. Election will occur at the annual meeting, April 10th. Mrs. Brooks announced a meeting of the executive committee in the club home April 7th at two p. m. The minutes were read by Mrs. Frank S. Weil.

Work Feverishly

Erie, Pa. — some 30 miles east of the wreck — said ambulance physicians reported at least 175 persons were badly injured.

A New York Central company spokesman said passenger trains involved were the No. 5 headed for Chicago from Buffalo, N. Y., and the streamliner Northwestern Limited No. 12, traveling from St. Louis to New York.

Hurling debris knocked out telegraph and telephone lines, cutting communications between Conneaut, O., and Erie, Pa. No fire was reported.

The wreck was three miles east of Conneaut and the railroad man who reported the crash said he had to run the distance on foot to get to the nearest telephone.

The Red Cross and other relief agencies worked with physicians and police to help the injured to hospitals in Conneaut, Erie and Ashtabula. Stretcher bearers had to carry their burdens nearly a mile to the nearest road which an auto could use.

Heavy traffic of curious motorists choked the highways and hampered ambulances and relief vehicles both in Ohio and Pennsylvania. A trooper from the West Springfield, Pa., barracks reported the roads virtually impassable.

A New York Central official said reports were vague on the cause of the three-way wreck.

One report, he said, indicated that the freight, traveling westward, was derailed either by striking an auto or a cargo of steel that slipped into its path from a passing freight.

The freight was pitched across the track and was struck by the Chicago-bound No. 5 passenger train. The Southwest No. 12 smashed into the wreckage of the other two.

The railroad official said new trains were re-routed between New York and Chicago through a Canadian detour linking Buffalo and Detroit.

Today's Quiet Moment

By William E. Hakes
Pastor
First Baptist Church

Jesus said, "I am the Light of the world" (John 8:12). The world is a dark place because of sin. The terrifying part of the story is the man who is doomed by the blackness of his own sin. He does not desire the Light. He is content in the dark. He even loves the very darkness in which he lives. Jesus is the only ray of light for a sin-drenched world. He alone can stem the tide of sin and bring forgiveness and eternal blessing. The latter portion of that verse from John says, "he that followeth Me (Jesus) shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the Light of life." This is the guaranteed promise of Jesus Christ, sealed by His very blood in His atoning death on the Cross. The hymn writer put it this way: "The whole world was lost in the darkness of sin; the Light of the world is Jesus." Let Jesus Christ shine into your heart and life to bring with Him not only forgiveness, but peace and abundant life.

Possibly the enforcement of Ordinance No. 2, passed June 6, 1892, resulted in putting some persons in the Tullytown lock-up. It forbids anyone "to stand, collect or congregate about the corners or on any part of the public streets, highways, lanes or alleys of the borough; or upon the canal bridges . . . so as to become a nuisance, or detrimental to the peace and comfort of the citizens of the borough." A fine of $3 plus prosecution costs was provided, with a 24-hour jail term the penalty in lieu of the fine.

Town council ordered 12-foot-wide wooden sidewalks built on Main street Oct. 2, 1893, when it passed Ordinance 5. The wide walks were to extend from the northeastern line of the Methodist Episcopal Church property to the house of Jacob and Daniel White. Brown street, on the northeast side, was given narrow walks, only six feet wide, under the same ordinance.

The following year town council ordered six-foot sidewalks on both sides of Fallsington avenue from Main street to the railroad tracks. The borough speed limit, for "horse, mare, or mule," and bicycles, was set at eight miles per hour under Ordinance 8, adopted Aug. 3, 1896, with a $5 fine for speeders.

The sections of Levittown Parkway (Oxford Valley road) and Tullytown-Fallsington road north of the canal are "rural" roads under Ordinance 14, which authorized construction of side paths there, and prohibits "pasturing of cows or other animals" on any highways of Tullytown, "except to pass over the same in the exercise of the right of way." Violators were fined $5 for each wayfaring animal.

MARRIAGE RISK

By INS

The chance of making a go of marriage is considerably less for a divorced person than for someone marrying for the first time. A national magazine (Cosmopolitan) says reports indicate that with each successive divorce, the risk of a break-up for the next marriage increases. Widowed persons who remarry also are more divorce-prone than first-married persons, but not nearly as much as divorced persons.

A series of Articles Introducing the New Residents of Levittown to The Community.
(By Staff Reporter)

When Ernest J. Majersky and his wife, Betty, came from New York City to 48 Blue Spruce lane Feb. 14, it was a move closer to her old home. Mrs. Majersky is from Moorestown, N. J. Her husband is a native New Yorker.

Mr. Majersky is an agent for Prudential Insurance Co., assigned to five sections of Levittown, Greenbrook, Willowood, Elderberry Pond, Magnolia Hill and Birch Valley. He works from Burlington, N. J., but the Prudential Co. will soon open an office here.

In World War II he was a Navy pharmacist mate aboard the destroyer U. S. S. Renshaw, which sailed in the Pacific. Later he studied at Phila. College of Pharmacy and Science. Mrs. Majersky is a registered nurse. She received her training at the University of Penna. Nursing School, and was on the staff of New York Hospital, N. Y.

Painting landscape scenes is a spare time activity with Mr. Majersky.

It was on a Friday the 13th, in February, that William T. Moore and his wife, Therese, moved here from Lansdale, but their house at 52 Blue Spruce lane has meant only good luck to them.

Mr. Moore works in the construction of Levittown, as transit man in a surveying party for Levitt & Sons, Inc. He is from Plainfield, N. J., and Mrs. Moore was born in Phila.

Mr. Moore saw Army service in Italy during World War II. His wife used to be an IBM operator for the First National Bank of Lansdale.

The steamship "Independence" burned off California, 140 died, Feb. 16, 1853.

A witch met guests at the door and checked coats; students were then given a horseshoe to help see them through the evening. After receiving a horseshoe, guests were escorted through a dark room full of squirt guns and flash cameras. If you made it out of there in one piece, you were permitted to go to the library for dancing. Madam Zoola, a very clairvoyant person, sat at the far end of the library.

The members of Student Council recently took orders for blue and gold school jackets in cooperation with Mr. Singer of Singer Bros., who is supplying the jackets.

This jacket, which is standard will be  $\frac{3}{4}$  length, with a zipper front, and open sleeves with wind breakers. The person's name will be written in "script" in the upper left corner of the jacket in the front. The year the person will graduate and the name Delhaas High School in block letters, will be on the back. A tiger will also be on the jacket.
